Breakout Session - Branding & Marketing for Health Reform

Alex Reilly, MB Piland Marketing + Advertising, Topeka

Healthcare is changing and we need to be ready for it. People who rely on a free or low cost medical care will have more choices in the future where they can receive care. The mindset needs to be moved away from being only “Safety Net” clinics to being the “place of choice” for healthcare. MB Piland Marketing + Advertising will present the plan to help KAMU clinics achieve this goal.

Krista Postai; Community Health Center of Southeast Kansas, Pittsburg

Robert Stiles, MA, MPH; Kansas Department of Health & Environment Primary Care Office, Topeka

Ruth Humbert; Marian Clinic, Topeka

Veronica Seberger; Hunter Health Clinic, Wichita

Kansas is very fortunate to have legislation that allows for unused prescription medications to be made available at little or no cost to low income individuals. In this session, key players in the development of the Kansas Unused Medications Repository will discuss the provisions of the Kansas Unused Medications Act. The Kansas Unused Medication Repository, a partnership between the Kansas Department of Health and Environment and the Community Health Center of Southeast Kansas, will also be discussed with a focus on how the Repository makes medications available to clinics and the patients they serve.

Breakout Session - Words From the Wise - The Patient Centered Medical Home Journey ★

Janet Burton, MBA; Turner House Children's Clinic, Kansas City

Lisa Culliton, Pediatric NP; KU Health Partners/Silver City Health Center, Kansas City

Rob S. Freelove, MD; Salina Family Health Care Center, Salina

At a state and national level, there has been much discussion surrounding improving the health care system. One important facet of this discussion is transforming practices into Patient Centered Medical Homes (PCMH). The PCMH initiative focuses on an enhanced relationship between provider and patient, in which the provider coordinates all aspects of the patients care to improve the quality of service provided, the satisfaction of the patient, and access to primary preventive services. To set themselves apart, clinics may choose to complete a PCMH recognition process. The National Committee for Quality Assurance (NCQA) has developed the most accepted recognition process, and Turner House Children's Clinic, KU Health Partners/Silver City Health Center, and Salina Family Health Care Center have been actively pursuing NCQA, PCMH Recognition, and will share their experiences.

Breakout Session - Incorporating Quality in Your Clinic ★

Jan Wilkerson RN, CPHQ; Georgia Association for Primary Health Care

With the current fiscal climate at national and state levels, emphasis is being placed on delivering health care services that are efficient and effective with quality at the forefront. The focal point began with the 2001, "Crossing the Quality Chasm Report", where the emphasis on quality, transparency and accountability began to be the mantra for health care reform. With health care system costs ostensibly unsustainable, federal programs, private insurance, and providers must focus on three critical aspects: Individual experience of health care delivery, the health of a defined population, and cost per capita of the population. Known as the Institute for Healthcare Improvement's "Triple Aim", Dr. Don Berwick has begun the Triple Aims' transforming improvements at CMS. This emphasis on quality has lead to national initiatives including Meaningful Use, Patient Centered Medical Home and Partnership for Patients, focusing on improved outcomes and cost management. In order to be successful in this environment, clinics must have effective, sustainable quality programs and infrastructures that support healthcare system improvements utilizing quality improvement teams with organizational investment in providing the best possible care in the clinic setting.

Breakout Session - Primary Care / Integration ★

Susie Schwartz; Hunter Health Clinic, Wichita

Michelle Base; Hunter Health Clinic, Wichita

Carol Hind, R.N.; Mental Health Center of East Central Kansas, Emporia

A panel of Primary Care clinic staff and Mental Health staff will share their experiences in coordination/integration of primary care and behavioral health care at their clinic. Participants will learn about clinics that provide mental health services for their patients as well as hear from clinics who are participating in an integration project in which they are working directly with the Community Mental Health Center in their community. The presentation will include data on improved health outcomes and decreased costs for patients who have both their chronic health care needs met along with their behavioral health needs.

Amanda Lowe; Health Partnership Clinic, Overland Park
Amy Falk; Caritas Clinics, Kansas City/Leavenworth
Julie Branstrom; Douglas County Dental Clinic, Lawrence
Schaunta James-Boyd; E.C. Tyree Health & Dental Clinic, Wichita
Marlene Dreiling, MN, RN; Guadalupe Clinic, Wichita

This session will highlight several Primary Care Safety Net Clinics that host successful fundraisers. As local, state, and federal budgets are being reduced as well as support from Foundations and other funders, clinics are finding it important to host successful fundraisers. More and more clients are coming to the clinics uninsured, thus increasing the financial burden on clinics health care costs. Interaction among and between presenters and participants will lead to an engaging/interactive session.

Luncheon: Innovations in Understanding the Kansas Dental Workforce ★ ◆

Kim Kimminau, Ph.D., Kansas University Medical Center, Kansas City
Kathy Weno, DDS, JD; Kansas Department of Health & Environment Bureau of Oral Health, Topeka

Workforce shortage areas are usually defined by federal guidelines on a county or sub-population level using a "rational service area for the delivery of care". In reality, the distance between population centers and the nearest provider may not follow county or city boundaries. In states like Kansas that have large rural areas with low populations, factors such as dental practice location, transportation patterns and travel time have an important impact on access to dental care. Although traditional shortage designations are useful for determining eligibility for federal workforce incentives like loan repayment programs, they are less helpful in describing shortage areas with the levels of precision that is necessary for workforce policy planning. The KDHE Bureau of Oral Health's 2009 Oral Health Workforce Assessment collected information about Kansas oral health professionals' practice patterns and retirement plans. In 2011 the Bureau expanded this project by adding geographic information systems approaches to the issue of workforce shortage areas. This novel research project maps Kansas' population density, reported drive times to providers and services, and the distribution of the current dental workforce. This presentation will release the 2011 Oral Health Workforce Assessment and identify Kansas' Dental Service "Deserts", areas in the state that have the most critical need for oral health professionals.

General Session

1:30 - 3:15 pm

Opening General Session - "If Not Now, When?" ★

W. Mitchell, CSP, CPAE

Mitchell will provide the audience a new perspective, a better filter, and a candid conversation about what's next. His inspirational remarks will help the audience work smarter than ever before, think far beyond their job description, and face the realities of the ever changing health care delivery system. He will instill in everyone the "oh yes we can" attitude when it comes to serving vulnerable populations in Kansas. He will not only demonstrate what it takes to make change, but he will provide the necessary tools that can be used to improve the quality of our delivery system.

General Session

3:30 - 5:00 pm

General Session - Public Policy Panel ★

Kansas Lt. Governor Jeff Colyer, MD, Overland Park
Secretary Robert Moser, MD; Kansas Department of Health & Environment, Topeka
Judy Baker, MHA; Regional Director of Health & Human Services, Region 7, Kansas City, MO

Health care leaders will provide insight on challenges being faced by the state in the areas of Medicaid cost containment, policy development, funding, health reform, and the need for collaboration. Panel members will discuss how services and programs may be impacted with changes in Medicaid, health care reform, and funding.

8:00 - 9:00 am

Opening Session / Breakfast - Dental Community Collaborative Practical Model ★ ◆

Michael Helgeson, DDS; Apple Tree Dental, Minneapolis, Minnesota

Dr. Helgeson, is one of the founders and CEO of Apple Tree Dental, an innovative non-profit dental organization serving vulnerable populations across Minnesota for over 25 years. Apple Tree has advanced a nationally recognized on-site oral health care program that incorporates new technologies, team members and community partnerships in what is called a "Community Collaborative Practice" model. Dr. Helgeson will describe the keys to Apple Tree's successful team approach while providing insights that could help other safety net providers deliver primary oral health care to underserved and special needs populations in urban and rural areas. This year, Apple Tree will add two of the nation's first Advanced Dental Therapists to its dental team. Learning about Minnesota's new mid-level workforce model will help stimulate a healthy dialogue about "what's next?" as Kansas moves forward with its own dental workforce initiatives.

General Session

9:15 - 10:30 am

General Session - Cultural Competency: Bridging Barriers ★ ◆

Cathy Anderson, MA; Jewish Vocational Services, Kansas City, MO

This session offers key information of the dynamics of cultural differences, with an emphasis on economic and social diversity across the state and within our low-income communities. Techniques for communicating effectively will be emphasized, along with strategies for building strong connections with the communities we serve.

General Session

10:45 - 12:00 pm

Breakout Session - Looking Forward in Reverse: The Marriage Between Operational Processes & Financial Ratios

Scott Gold, CPA; BKD, LLP, Springfield, MO

Today's successful administrators and managers need to be able to analyze financial information to improve their health center's operations and profitability. Financial management is tightly intertwined with operational decision making and plays a much larger role in the overall management of a business in today's healthcare environment. He will introduce concepts related to analyzing financial ratios and key metrics in conjunction with operational processes. He will also explore opportunities for improvement in the design and management of health center operations based on an organization's financial data.

Breakout Session - Gettin Em & Keepin Em - Staffing: A Strength Based Approach ★

Joyce Grayson; University of Kansas Rural Health Services, Wichita

Jill Peltzer, RN, MS, ARNP; University of Kansas School of Nursing, Kansas City

Diana Machotka, CCP; United Methodist Mexican-American Ministries, Garden City

Recruitment and retention are critical in Kansas Safety Net Clinics and will become more so with the anticipated growth of patients in need of care and a graying workforce. This panel will discuss workforce trends, resources, case studies, and the nuts and bolts of a recruiting visit - all with a focus on improving Safety Net organizations' capacity to recruit and retain the staff they need.

Safety Net Focus

10:45 - 12:00 pm

Breakout Session - Health Information Exchange ★

Laura McCrary, Ed.D.; Kansas Health Information Network, Topeka

Kansas Health Information Network's goal is to improve healthcare quality, coordination, and efficiency through the exchange of health information at the point of care, utilizing a secure electronic network provided by a collaboration of healthcare organizations. Participants will have an opportunity to understand the impact on improvement of patient care via health information technology.

Breakout Session - Working Together to Bring Health Coverage to All Kansans ★ ◆

Linda Sheppard; Kansas Insurance Department, Topeka

The Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act (PPACA) carries with it the promise for a pediatric dental benefit for all American children. Throughout 2011, volunteers from civic, industry and governmental groups have been working with the Kansas Insurance Department to discuss how to implement a state-based health benefits exchange that would meet requirements of the federal health reform law. This session will offer a glimpse into the Kansas exchange planning process and will include a look at the next steps in implementing the Affordable Care Act in our state, including opportunities for consumers across the state to provide input about the Kansas exchange.

Breakout Session - Creating Success with Community Oral Health Coalitions, I ★ ◆

Diana Koonce; Kentucky Oral Health Program, Frankfort, KY

The overall goal of the State of Kansas is for residents to have optimum oral health. To achieve this outcome, all communities throughout the state need to create a plan to address specific needs of its residents. This includes conducting a needs assessment, determining specific behavior changes that lead to improved oral health and establishing and utilizing a monitoring and evaluation system. Community-Based Prevention Marketing Model has been used successfully by the Center for Disease Control and Prevention to support behavior change for improved health outcomes. It is a strategic process that community oral health coalitions in Kentucky has used to influence changes in residents for better oral health outcomes. Workshop participants will identify a desired behavioral change leading to improved oral health and use it as an example to experience the application of the planning model with a situation relevant to their oral health goals.

Breakout Session - Innovative Dental Programs for Kansas Children ★ ◆

Kathryn Trilli, RDH, ECP II; Wichita State University, Wichita

Diana Juarez, MPH; Wichita Public School District, Wichita

Not all Kansas children have the benefit of regular dental care. Infants and toddlers, as well as children with disabilities, are at risk of not receiving thorough home care and access to professional dental services. Two Kansas organizations have responded with innovative services. This workshop will showcase both programs designed to reduce the risk of oral disease in children: a dental hygiene service integrated into a specialty clinic for children with Cerebral Palsy and an infant/toddler oral health home visiting curriculum and workshops.

Michael Helgeson, DDS; Apple Tree Dental, Minneapolis, Minnesota

Deb Jacobi, RDH, MA; Apple Tree Dental, Minneapolis, Minnesota

Dr. Michael Helgeson and Deb Jacobi will facilitate the dental track meeting provided for Safety Net clinic dentists and their staff. This presentation will include in depth discussion of Apple Tree's "Community Collaborative Practice" model for delivering proactive primary oral health care to vulnerable patients. Dr. Helgeson and Ms. Jacobi will share their experiences and challenges incorporating new technologies, adding new team members and establishing community partnerships. Their experiences and knowledge will help participants leave this session with a better understanding of the benefits of an expanded dental team approach and insights about how new mid-level workers might benefit their own practices. This session will be highly interactive with the leaders, the facilitator, and the participants.
